Corporate and Commercial

Traditional commercial and corporate law is one of our core competences. Rely on our legal and business know-how to help you select the most suitable legal form for your business, advise you on setting up, buying, and selling companies, settling disputes between shareholders in court and out of court, and many other issues.

We can handle all legal aspects of company and share transfers from the first letter of intent up to the closing and obtaining all necessary antitrust approvals, and we are proud of the fact that our long and well-established experience in preparing and implementing due diligence as well as drafting and enforcing contracts is often one of the factors leading to a successful completion of a transaction. One of the services we provide, for example, is competent language assistance in complex contractual negotiations, where our multi-lingual advisors are able to use their expertise to your full advantage.

Company Succession / Foundations and Trusts

Our clients turn to us to take advantage of our specific know-how concerning company successions (across generations) as well as any company reorganizations.

We are also sought after by wealthy individuals, and several of our Partners serve as board members or advisors for private foundations. Our success in the private client sector is based on our specific expertise – especially in sensitive issues relating to estate, family, company, and tax laws – coupled with confidentiality and a broad range of experience. The leading role of HASCH & PARTNER is also corroborated by numerous publications in the field of private foundations.

Banking and Finance

Capital market law, collateral law, as well as structuring and executing IPOs form another pillar of our Law Firm's activities, comprising a vast array of services ranging from advising members of management and supervisory boards on liability issues to providing legal opinions for large overseas banks.

Furthermore, venture capital firms have relied on HASCH & PARTNER's expertise which is also reflected in relevant publications and a large number of talks and presentations in this particular field for years now. In addition to dealing with legal aspects in raising equity in the form of private equity, venture capital, or via the stock market, we specialize in developing hybrid financial instruments. We help optimize the use of such investments, also from a tax perspective, as a matter of routine in our standard legal activities.

Distribution Law and Franchising

Our specialists in this field will support you in developing and implementing national and international distribution systems, and our clients greatly appreciate our business know-how as well as expertise in the proper design of distribution agreements also in English. To us, it is only natural that our experts know every single detail of any requirements under European law that may affect issues relating to distribution law.

Competition Law

Our Law Firm handles all kinds of tools, such as – to give just a few examples – preliminary injunctions, publications of judgments, injunctive reliefs, and house searches. On a European level, we mainly deal with issues of abuse of dominant market positions which we will be glad to raise and resolve on your behalf. We also focus on problems in connection with antitrust law that regularly come up in the course of our legal activities in the process of large-scale corporate transactions, in PPP models, and also in the field of distribution law.

Intellectual Property Law

HASCH & PARTNER has a powerful arsenal to defend its clients against unjustified claims in the field of intellectual property law on the one hand, and to pursue its clients' claims against their competitors in court and out of court on the other hand. As part of our full-service range, we also offer national and international trademark research and registration as well as legal opinions on copyright law.

Administrative Law

As our competent and experienced legal team covers virtually all aspects of business law, we will also be pleased to advise and represent you in areas of special administrative law such as small business law, aviation law, or subsidy law, to name just a few.

Real Estate

Our activities in this field range from straightforward real estate transactions to complex projects that require comprehensive legal support from the design stage up to operation and disposal. Furthermore, we have extensive know-how concerning the development and implementation of special taxation models that can be applied in the field of real estate.

Bankruptcy Law

Our specialized team is able to offer advice on all legal aspects relating to bankruptcies and insolvencies and routinely handles in-court and out-of-court restructurings and conducts negotiations with banks and other creditors. Also, a number of our Partners regularly act as receivers in bankruptcy procedures.

Czech Law

Over time, the Czech Republic has become an important market for Austrian companies, and HASCH & PARTNER will gladly support and advise clients in the fields of commercial and company law, real estate law, civil law, and intellectual property law.
